

MYTHOLOGY

Links

http://gretchenle.com/online_units/mythology.html

This is it; this is where I found many activities

<http://homepage.mac.com/cparada/GML/MapGreece.html>

a great map and large enough to work with; shows the entire ancient Mediterranean region

<http://www.hol.gr/greece/godsft.htm>

Ancient gods family tree

<http://www.hol.gr/greece/ancgods.htm>

list of Titans, Olympians, and other semi-gods with descriptions

<http://www.sdcoe.k12.ca.us/score/ulysses/ulystg.htm>

a great cyberlink to teach Ulysses with many, many activities for the teacher to choose from; when time arises to teach Ulysses, please look and incorporate some of the activities; great map

<http://www.areopagus.net/>

scroll to bottom of page and see all that's there; great list of gods with great information

<http://www.mythweb.com/>

gods, heroes, complete index; look at gods artwork, click on a god and see explanation; click on Teachers and then Teaching Tips for some really good products

<http://www.loggia.com/myth/myth.html>

Mythography; click on Greek, Roman, and Celtic myths and art

<http://titan.sfasu.edu/~beenet/resources/heromain.html>

The Archetypal Hero in Literature, Religion, and Popular Culture; a must see in explaining the common characteristics of the archetypal hero—discusses Star Wars, The Lion King, etc. A must-see before the quest discussion

http://www.jlhs.nhusd.k12.ca.us/Classes/Language_Arts/Greek_Mythology/Making_Meanings.html

excellent look at logos that have beginnings in mythology

<http://www.users.globalnet.co.uk/~loxias/odchoice.htm>

interactive game based on The Odyssey in which students choose to be a character and play the game; great review of what happened in story

http://www.astro.wisc.edu/~dolan/constellations/constellation_list.html

interdisciplinary with science; students can click on constellations from list; click on sky chart and enlarge for a good view; and also click on Interactive Star Chart and move the vertical and horizontal bars and see them move in the sky; choose this “interactive applet” for any constellation

<http://home.att.net/~michelle/olympus.html>

Mythology Jeopardy—1st round, double jeopardy, final round; use on-line or get ideas for your own game

<http://greekmyth.com/>

“The Myth Man”; just keep clicking on Homework Help until you get some really good links to tons of information!! Also where the article by James Harvey Stout about mythology came from. See quizzes at bottom.